

Become a part of our team!

Chrestos is a CRO which offers services for pharmaceutical companies and supports scientific studies. Our team consists of statisticians, programmers, data scientists and managers, medical writers and others that believe in making the world a healthier, sustainable, and better place. Together we have fun and share our ideas and concepts while enjoying coffee or lunch together.

In order to strengthen our team, we are looking for a motivated

Internship (m,f,d) in the field of clinical research

We support the biometric sector in pharmaceutical research: starting with preclinical development to observational studies. There will be a multitude of tasks available to you.

---

Your responsibilities

- Getting to know the biometrical work in the pharmaceutical sector.
- Being introduced to different phases in clinical trials as well as other fields of clinical research.
- Learning to plan, program, document, and present statistical analyses in clinical research.

Your qualifications

- You have an above average bachelor's degree in science (e.g., data sciences, statistics, mathematics, bioinformatics, or other related fields) and will be reaching your master's degree within 12 months.
- You are interested in data analytics and pharmaceutical research and can assert your expertise.
- You have a high affinity to statistics and programming.
- You have a good knowledge of SAS or R (expertise in additional languages is a plus).
- You have intrinsic interest in statistics, and you want to keep up a high standard to achieve high quality results.
- You have good communication- and presentation skills, are proficient in English with B2 German language skills.

---

We offer

- An environment dedicated to sustainability
- An ambitious team that works with joy, passion, and flexibility
- Flexible family-friendly work time and hybrid working arrangements
- Comfortable, modern workspace
- A personal and comprehensive supervision

Please send your documents to: karriere@chrestos.de

